Great Leadership Starts With Strengths

Zenger Folkman's approach changes the traditional development-planning process to a new, strengths-focused lifestyle that brings science to the art of leadership.

Grounded in Research

The Extraordinary Leader 360 Assessment utilizes globally validated questions to measure effectiveness in the skills that differentiate highly effective leaders. Leaders receive valuable, robust feedback that is benchmarked against global norms.

Built on Strengths

Research shows the greatest increases in business outcomes don't happen when focusing on weaknesses, but rather by building upon strengths. Through analysis of their personal feedback, participants discover their sweet spot; a focus for development that leverages their strengths, supports organizational needs, and plays to their passions.

A New Leadership Lifestyle

By targeting behaviors that have the greatest impact on effectiveness, individuals create strengths-based development plans. Using The Extraordinary Leader Development Guide, leaders can implement practices that are intentionally, consistently, and easily integrated into normal workflow.
